

DAVID I. MALEK

19 Sachem Circle • West Lebanon, New Hampshire 03784 • 603-653-0352 • david.malek@dartmouth.edu

---

EDUCATION

- 2005 - Present TUCK SCHOOL OF BUSINESS AT DARTMOUTH Hanover, NH
Candidate for Master of Business Administration, June 2007
- Co-chair of Healthcare Club, Tuck Ambassador to Israel, member of Scotch Club, Outdoor Club
  - Led a consulting team in a project for Genzyme, performing a complete commercial analysis for a new drug-launch; evaluated market characteristics, marketing strategy and financial value
  - Initiated a project with GlycoFi, a leading Biotechnology company in the glycosylation engineering area; formed and led a team which analyzed the valuation of the company and ways to increase its value
- 1995 - 1997 UNIVERSITY OF HAIFA, SCHOOL OF SOCIAL STUDIES Haifa, Israel
Bachelor of Arts, double majored in Statistics and Political Science, July 1997
Granted university scholarship for academic excellence, and a full academic tuition scholarship
-

EXPERIENCE

- Summer 2006 SANOVI-AVENTIS Bridgewater, NJ
Product Management Intern, Cardiovascular
- Manage a project to increase patient compliance for Multaq, a new drug launched by the firm
- Summer 2006 BOSTON CONSULTING GROUP New York, NY
Summer Consultant
Will participate in BCG's summer internship program
- 1999 - 2005 ISRAELI AIR FORCE (IAF) INTELLIGENCE DIVISION Tel-Aviv, Israel
Unit Commander (Major), Analysis Department (2003 - 2005)
Responsible for all intelligence and strategic evaluations for the IAF in a major area of concern
- Supervised 14 people in collecting and analyzing top-secret data, presenting recommendations to senior officers, and preparing strategic evaluations the Defense Minister and Prime Minister of Israel
  - Spearheaded a team focusing on finding solution for coping with rocket fire hitting Israeli cities; presented new analysis perspective to senior officers and derived new tactics that prevented 500% more incidents
  - Initiated and led a one-year process that redefined air superiority posture in the Israeli Air Force; implemented new flight methods, changed organizational structure and increased efficiency by 25%
- Unit Commander (Captain), Intelligence for Operations Department (2001 - 2003)*
Responsible for all intelligence affecting Air Force operational activities
- Honored by the Israeli Air Force Commander as Outstanding Officer of 2003
  - Promoted to become the youngest Unit Commander in Israeli Air Force Intelligence history
  - Directed software-team developing the next generation of the Air Force intelligence information system, including setting priorities and building project plan; Goals achieved despite 20% personnel cutback
  - Restructured operations methods due to decrease in budget, thus reducing reserve soldier cost by 50% and technology maintenance cost by $150,000 per year, without hindering operational capabilities
- Head of Operations Research and Targets Task Force (2001 - 2005)*
Emergency position, performed in parallel to Unit Commander positions on five operations and 50 exercises
- Youngest person to assume this position in Israeli Air Force history
  - Led a team of 400 people and over 20 intelligence assets translating real-time information into operative activities for hundreds of aircrafts; increased client's output by over 15% without additional resources
  - Established strategic cooperation with US forces in build-up for and during Operation Iraqi Freedom; awarded medals from both American and Israeli Generals
- Analysis Officer (Lieutenant/Captain), Analysis Department (1999 - 2001)*
Analyzed intelligence in a major area of concern; Promoted to Captain two years ahead of standard schedule
- Received Head of Intelligence Award for Creative Thinking and Intelligence Contribution
  - Awarded Air Force's annual Creative Thinking Prize by the Head of the Analysis Department
-

PERSONAL

- Led a team that tutored 40 students from underprivileged backgrounds for three years
- Backpacked in over 20 countries; amateur mountain climber; spear fisherman